Fringes Take Out Box

"Fringes" were born from the meeting and friendship with Rita Lintz, an artist from New York. For Rita, fringes are a basic element, a true part of life itself. Thread, fringes, sewn terra-cotta and embroidery are all part of the tale that Rita offers us with the delicate sorcery and that quiet strength that has always characterized women's artwork.

Now the fringes become a street food, a high-quality chocolate to be eaten while walking, like roasted chestnuts, French fries, cotton candy or ice cream. Following the philosophy of street food, each flavor of the Fringes is well designed to impress crunching under the teeth as a tasty snack. Rita has created the shapes, La Molina packaged them in a purposely minimalistic take away box.

Art to consume with eyes and mouth, like all La Molina products.
